In the Midst of COVID-19,

On top of the already strenuous obligations and tasks we all face, educational institutions, community organizations and businesses around the globe have found themselves stressed, overwhelmed and unable to adapt as quickly as is needed for optimizing successful, efficient virtual operations that streamlines virtual learning and working needs. Furthermore, the stakeholders of these organizations--from teachers, students, admin and other employees-- are often forced to quarantine and family members bear the brunt of an out-of-work / out-of-school member.

In the Midst of COVID-19,

Thus, it is of increasingly high-importance to quickly adapt to the nuances of virtual/remote learning and hybrid learning, and many organizational leaders are opting for remote, virtual learning and working options, hoping it will curb an already rampant spread of COVID-19. As a result, high-tension work/learning environments, a decreased quality and timeliness of service, virus outbreaks and a decrease of helpful hands on deck all lead to the inability to create and execute effective solutions for combating the steep tech learning curve of a sudden demand for virtual/remote learning and working.

You're Heroic!!! and I tried to narrate that with the below text that was submitted to the Project CEOX application.

-----Text-----

It has been my greatest pleasure to partner with Shatoyia. Her captivating ability and unwavering compassion for humanity truly captures her transformational leadership style.

Her superpowers are limitless. She simultaneously manages her organization effortlessly while being present in the community. Her impeccable leadership, accountability, mental wellness and resilience are exceedingly noteworthy and is what makes her CEO material.

Not only does Shatoyia empower her team to be the best throughout every progressive movement, she openly shares her imperative knowledge with others. She unselfishly serves the community with purpose. Candidly, I don't know what Shatoyia couldn't do, but if I had to choose, I would say her niche would be holistic Business Coaching, Business Administration, Outreach Programs and any problem solving and project management companies.
